I think that NC State university's support system is not very well set-up to deal with issues of sexual harassment. I often do not trust the idea put forth by official communications that there were misunderstandings regarding sexual advancements/harassments. From what I know on this topic, my impression is that victims often retract their statements in fear of retribution or stigmatization. The authority needs to probe such instances better so that victims are protected and they find justice. I am also not sure about the role of Women's Center on campus and I have not seen them take a stand on recent charges of sexual harassment. Identifying which units on campus works/supports causes such as this may help students to find useful information.	Asian	Female
I think the outreach is great, especially in light of recent events. I think some aspects are really easy: accept people of different background, don't tolerate hate of any form, etc. Others are more difficult: affirmative action policies, how to incorporate diversity into classrooms, etc. Quick note, I have noticed the "Rape crisis" link on MyPack portal doesn't work. I haven't needed it but was curious where it led. I shudder to think about someone needing it and finding a broken link, but I hadn't reported it assuming there were many other resources besides MyPack (which probably wouldn't be a victim's first thoughts...). I am in the master's of social work program, so these issues are on the forefront of our curriculum and discussions. My biggest criticism of our campus environment is the lack of security presence. My undergraduate school was a large state landgrant university - not unlike NCSU. Every large school is going to have it's share of crime, but I think we could do more to enhance our security presence in the near off-campus area. Be it in the form of lighting, patrolling, community watch programs, etc. I would like to see us do more in this space.	White	Male
