| I think all of the offered events are working well, I almost think some of them should be required for students to attend though. But I think the mere diversity of campus initiates friendships and other such interaction between people of all kinds. I also think our generation and the generations to come are naturally becoming more and more open-minded. We should take advantage of this. Making sure people are diversified though in classes and dorms is a great way to start. | White | Female |
| I think Campus Life (ie Housing) is doing an excellent job at supporting diversity for on-campus residents. There are multiple resources available for incoming freshmen as well, such as the GLBT Center, Women's Center, OIED, etc. I do think I am a bit biased, however, since I have been an RA and I have been an executive board member for the Inter-Residence Council, and am therefore more aware of the opportunities related to diversity for students. | White | Female |
| I do believe that the incorporation of diversity into nearly every element of campus, this being classes, dorm life, and clubs, is a positive and is a great way to combat prejudice and bigotry. | White | Female |
| Just being with so many different kinds of people, in the dorms, gym, and dining halls, makes it easy to meet and support others. | White | Female |

| Campus-wide events, food cultural events, Global Village / | White | Female |
| The efforts by the administration and staff. The students, especially the ones I interact with in the dorms, are the problem. | White | Male |
| Student organizations that support specific classes of minorities, the residence hall experience, and a general accepting atmosphere promoted by the staff. | White | Male |
| Living and learning villages in residence halls | White | Male |
| Having the multicultural centers, African American center and all of the other minority centers. Spreading awareness through events, clubs, programs, and even in the classroom. Also, the Global Village is actually where I live, and they do plenty of programs and activities that embraces diversity. | Mult race | Female |
| What is working well is the faculty's respect for diversity. I am an engineer and when I walk into class there is usually only one other person who looks like me in the room. However, being a minority I am in MEP and that department does a wonderful job living it's mission because of the staff and administration. Dr. Jerome Lavelle and Angelitha Daniels and devoted to increasing the number of multicultural students in engineering and retaining those students until their graduation. More departments on campus must take the same approach and involvement as the engineering one does to make a difference in the academic side of things. Another thing that is working well is the accessibility to multicultural programming by housing staff. The majority of students live in a residence hall upon entering NC State, so that can play a key role in the climate and environment that one perceives NC State of having. Also, the on campus organizations that are bigger like IRC, UAB, CSLEPS, etc do a good job of putting on multicultural programs. | Mult race | Male |
| University Housing does a great job of supporting diversity. Other campus programs such as Schools and other villages do as well. Diversity groups such as the Women's Center, etc also have great programs to support students. Student organizations such as SAGE also support diversity on campus. I think these programs however are not accessible to students living off campus. | Other/Unknown | Female |
