

May 2019 Graduate Future Plans Survey Introduction, Research Methods, and Response Rates

This series of reports presents findings from the May 2019 Graduate Future Plans Survey (GFPS). This survey is designed to collect specific information on the plans of master's and doctoral students at NC State University following graduation, including detailed information on employment, participation in career-preparation activities while at NC State, and further graduate/professional school being pursued. This introductory report provides a background of the Graduate Future Plans Survey and an overview of the research design. Additional reports can be found on the OIRP website.

Survey Background

Historically, the Career Development Center (CDC) and the college career service offices independently collected information from NC State's students on their 'future plans' at the time of their graduation. While these diverse strategies provided useful information for some units, centralizing the project in the Office of Institutional Research and Planning (OIRP) presented a more efficient and cost-effective mechanism for systematically collecting information from NC State graduates as a whole and providing reports on the results.

To accomplish these objectives, OIRP developed and administered the pilot Undergraduate Future Plans Survey (UFPS) to graduating seniors in December 2010, working with the CDC and the college career service offices to develop an overall research design and questionnaire. The UFPS has been administered semiannually to graduating seniors since then, and the results have been used by senior leadership, academic departments, career service offices, and other units across campus to support accreditation, assessment, and planning activities, as well as to provide information to employers and students on the job search process and employment details of NC State graduates.

Out of a growing need to collect information on the future plans of NC State's master's and doctoral graduates, with input from graduate students, the CDC, college career service offices, the Graduate School, directors of graduate programs, and associate deans for graduate programs, OIRP developed and administered the pilot Graduate Future Plans Survey in May 2018. Revisions were made to the May 2019 questionnaire following analysis of the May 2018 administration.

Research Design

Beginning in the academic year 2018 – 2019, the Graduate Future Plans Survey will be administered semiannually, coinciding with December and May graduation. In addition, December/May survey respondents who said at the time they completed the survey they were seeking or planning to seek full-time employment and/or were planning to pursue another graduate/professional degree but had not yet confirmed whether or not they would be enrolled or the school they would be attending will be invited to take a follow-up survey in September 2019. December and May graduate students who did not participate in the Graduate Future

Plans Survey when first invited to do so, or who graduated in the summer of 2019, will also be invited to take this survey.

OIRP is solely responsible for preparing the survey for online administration, identifying the survey population and sending email invitations and reminders about the survey to graduate students as appropriate, collecting and analyzing the data, and preparing and distributing reports on results.

All graduate students who have applied to graduate as of the day prior to graduation day are asked to participate in the GFPS¹. The online survey goes live about two weeks prior to graduation day, and is scheduled to close two to four weeks after graduation. The May 2019 Graduate Future Plans Survey was in the field from April 30, 2019, through May 29, 2019, with commencement being held on May 11.

On April 30, all doctoral and master's students who as of that day had applied to graduate were sent an email from their college Dean inviting them to participate in the survey. The first follow-up reminder email was sent to non-respondents from their college Associate Dean on May 6. On May 10, the second reminder email came from the Executive Director of the Career Development Center for graduate students in a college without its own career services office, and from the director of the student's college career services office (or equivalent) if their college did have such an office. The final three reminders came from the Director for Survey Research on May 21, May 23, and May 29. On each of the days that reminders were sent to non-respondents, invitations were emailed to those who had applied to graduate during the intervening period. Drafts of the invitation and five follow-up emails are available in Appendix A. In addition to the emails sent by OIRP, OIRP encouraged various administrators in the colleges and departments (e.g., Associate Deans, College and Department Coordinators for Advising) to contact their students directly. Some students, therefore, might have received additional requests to participate in the survey.

Incentives were offered to encourage participation in the survey. Two respondents who completed the survey by the May 29 deadline were randomly selected to each receive a $50 Amazon eGift Card.

Response Rates

The final May 2019 GFPS population consists of the 1,874 master's students (n=1,657) and doctoral students (n=217) who had applied to graduate and were conferred degrees as of May 11. Of these students, 1,240 participated in the Graduate Future Plans Survey for an overall response rate of 66.2 percent. Participation in the survey was slightly lower among master's students (65.7%) compared to doctoral students (70.0%).

¹ Doctoral and master's degree recipients only. DVM and DVM/PHD students are not included in the GFPS survey population.

Participation in the survey varied widely by college/school, ranging from a high of 100 percent in the Institute for Advanced Analytics to a low of 54.5 percent in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences and three out of the six graduate students in the College of Veterinary Medicine. The Institute for Advanced Analytics is slightly overrepresented in the overall results, with their graduates making up 4.9 percent of the May 2019 population and 9 percent of the survey respondents.
